ABOUT ME:

I achieved some of my biggest dreams as a professional tennis player, representing the Dutch National Team, competing in Grand Slam tournaments, and winning titles against some of the world's best players. But my career also had challenges, including a long-term injury that in the end forced me to retire from professional tennis in 2024. During my rehabilitation, I discovered a new passion for creating online content and storytelling through social media. This led me into presenting and interviewing, where I found a new way to connect with athletes and sportlovers. Today, I am focusing on building a career in sports media, combining my experience as an ex-professional athlete with my passion for content creation, presenting, and authentic storytelling.
